Today's top stories

1

Alarming new figures reveal nearly 3,000 patients every day in England are being treated in hospital corridors.

Data shows the sheer scale of people receiving care in make-shift areas, which are often described as unsafe and undignified. It highlights the immense pressure the NHS continues to face.

HEALTH · UK

2

The popular weight-loss drug Wegovy is set to be available in pill form in the UK for the very first time.

Manufacturer Novo Nordisk confirmed that a daily tablet could offer a more convenient option for some patients, compared to the current weekly injections. This could broaden access to the treatment.

The backlog of asylum appeals has reached a record high in the UK, according to newly released figures.

While the government has made progress in cutting the backlog of initial asylum cases, the number of appeals against decisions has continued to climb. This adds further pressure to the immigration system.

IMMIGRATION · UK

4

The Metropolitan Police Commissioner is urging tech giants to make stolen phones completely unusable.

Sir Mark Rowley has asked the Home Secretary to introduce new legislation. The aim is to force companies to publish data on stolen devices, making them less attractive to thieves.

CRIME · UK

5

The former Deputy Prime Minister, Angela Rayner, has criticised proposed changes to visa rules for care workers.

She described altering visa rules for migrants already living in the UK as 'un-British'. This comes amid ongoing debate about immigration policy and the care sector.

Local events and online communities are connecting enthusiasts, promoting biodiversity and the joy of growing something unique. A lovely green exchange!
- 7 More people are embracing 'mindful photography', focusing on capturing beauty in everyday moments.
It's not about perfect shots, but about really seeing and appreciating the small details around us, from a dewdrop on a leaf to the play of light. A lovely way to practice presence.

05 – TALKBACK

For the phone lines

OUR SURVEY SAID

Q Our survey said that over 65% of us admit to having a secret 'good luck' route to avoid traffic, even if it adds a few minutes to the journey. What's your top tip?

ANSWER: IT'S ALL ABOUT THOSE BACK ROADS AND SIDE STREETS WE KNOW LIKE THE BACK OF OUR HAND, HOPING TO OUTSMART THE RUSH HOUR!

Q A recent poll asked Brits what small, everyday item they always seem to 'collect' without really trying. What came out on top?

ANSWER: IT WAS THE TRUSTY PEN! ALWAYS THERE, BUT NEVER THE RIGHT ONE WHEN YOU REALLY NEED IT, OFTEN FOUND LURKING IN ODD CORNERS!

TALK TOPIC

- You know how sometimes you discover a new use for an everyday object that just makes life a little bit easier or more fun?

Perhaps it's using a kitchen gadget for something completely different, or repurposing an old item in a clever way. What's your favourite 'life hack' discovery?

- We all have those little 'comfort' sounds, don't we? The ones that just instantly make us feel relaxed, happy, or nostalgic.

Is it the sound of rain on the window, a kettle boiling, or maybe even the distant chime of an ice cream van? What's your ultimate comfort sound, and why?

TRUE STORY OR JACKANORY – LISTENERS GUESS

FACT Weather. It once 'rained' fish in a small town in Honduras, a phenomenon reported annually for over a century.

FICTION Made up, but believable. The world's largest snowflake ever recorded was the size of a dinner plate and fell in Montana, USA, in 1887.
